

Sermersuaq — The Big Ice — Greenland

Photograph by Jane English

Illit uangalu, imminermini eqqarsalersitsisarpugut.

You and I are the mystery in itself.

—Angaangaq Angakkorsuaq

Sermersuaq — The Big Ice — Greenland

Photograph by Jane English

Sirmiq Aattug Uummatinnit

Melting the Ice in the Heart of Man

— Angaangaq Angakkorsuaq

Inussuk and Midnight Rainbow — Greenland

Photograph by Jane English

Nunarsuatsinni oqaluffit annersaat pinngortitamiiippoq. Pinngortitarsuarmukaruit illit angerlarsimaffinnut angerlassaatit.

The biggest church on Earth is nature. When you go out in nature, you come home. You come home to yourself.

—Angaangaq Angakkorsuaq

Tuttu — Caribou — Greenland

Photograph by Adam Lyberth

*Aqqut atugara aqqutini kisiartaanngilaq.
My way is not the only way.
— Angaangaq Angakkorsuaq*

Sunrise — Greenland

Photograph by Adam Ljberth

*Inuuneruna ima pingaartigisoq allaat ullut tamaasa nalliuttorsiutigineqartariaqarluni.
Life is a Ceremony in itself worth Celebrating with a Ceremony.
—Angaangaq Angakkorsuaq*

Arsameit — Northern Lights before Moonrise — Greenland

Photograph by Jane English

*Kinaluunniit qaangiuttoq tulliani takulissavat arsarnerniittoq.
After someone has gone into the next world, the next time you will see him is as part of the Northern Lights.*

—Angaangaq Angakkorsuaq

Nivarsiaq — Greenland National Flower

Photograph by Jane English

Qungujunnernit tamanit kusanarnerpaaq tassaavoq uummammiit qungujunneq.

The most beautiful smile is a smiling heart.

—Angaangaq Angakkorsuaq

Caribou tracks at Aajuttup Tasersua (The Lake That Hardly Ever Melts) — Greenland

Photograph by Jane English

Pisugit ajunngitsumik. Makkittaarillutillumi nukittuujullutillu pisuttussaagavit, piffissarpassuarni agersunut.

Walk in a good way. Walk tall and powerful as you are meant to be, for times and times to come.

—Angaangaq Angakkorsuaq

Ummiak — Musk Ox — Greenland

Photograph by Adam Ljberth

Imminut naniguvit nukillu ilinniittoq malugilerlugu, taava sumiluunniit Nunarsuattinni pisussinnaangussaait.

When you find yourself and truly feel that strength within, then you can walk anywhere on Earth.

—Angaangaq Angakkorsuaq